91%

of people sign contracts
without reading them.

Not because they're careless. The average lease is 25 pages of legalese written for lawyers, not for the people signing.

It's not what the contract says.

It's what it doesn't say.

No deposit return deadline

→ your landlord can keep your money indefinitely

No maintenance timeline

→ broken heat in January can wait for weeks

No early termination clause

→ you're locked in for 12 months no matter what

The most dangerous clause is the one that isn't there.

INTRODUCING

Fine Print

Paste any contract.
Understand everything.

Read clause by clause

Every section extracted and explained in plain English

Score each one

Safe, unusual, or risky — color-coded at a glance

Find what's missing

The protections that should be there but aren't

Every clause, scored.

Like a teacher marking up an essay.

Landlord Entry Rights

• STANDARD

48 hours written notice required before entry. Balanced and standard.

Late Payment Fee

• UNUSUAL

$50 flat fee after a 3-day grace period. Slightly strict, worth noting.

Landlord Entry Rights

• RISKY

May enter at any time without notice. Removes a standard legal protection.

THE DIFFERENTIATOR

What's missing is often the biggest risk.
